“ Lannie: I had just spoken with you on Thursday before your unforeseen incident. Your voice sounded so good and strong, I even called Josephine after I had spoken with you to let her know how I thought you were doing. You told me that you were going to your meeting that night and that you were already dressed so we could talk for a while. We talked about family members Joséphine, Ki Jana (affectionately known by your grandmother) and the great grandbaby, and how excited you were to see your grandson Slugger, how you go to the mailbox and grocery shopping among other things. You also said that you were looking forward to the upcoming convention this summer. We made each other laugh and we really enjoyed talking with each other. I'll never forget when you used to catch the bus to Chapel Hill and you would stop at Duke on your way back home to visit with me for a couple of hours on many occasions. You were always a constant in my life all of the way back from 815 Tower Hill Road where I was born and you will truly be missed. Josephine, Ki Jana and family, Slugger and family, nieces and nephews as well as cousins, my thoughts and prayers are with all. Thanks, Josephine, for putting the phone to her ear so that I could talk with her one last time. RIP Lannie. Gone but never forgotten. Prayers, hugs and much love. Cousin Diane Cox
